Plan Is in Use

Local, County Workers Not to Be Grouped; Would Cut Cost

The proposed transfer of the functions of the Municipal Civil Service Commission to the county will not jeopardize the rights of civil service employes in the city, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk pointed out in a communication filed with the city clerk on Thursday.

The communication is addressed to the Common Council, but was not read to that body because of adjournment Thursday night. It will probably be received at the regular March meeting.

In the letter, Mayor Newkirk points out that he has consulted with the State Civil Service Commission as to the effects of the transfer on city employes. He said that he learned that city employes will not lose any competitive class rights, will not be thrown together

Presidential Primaries

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington - Selection of the men and women who will choose the Republican presidential nominee starts March 9, when New Hampshire holds its presidential primary election.

The big political interest this year of course is in the Republican primaries. Nomination of President Truman by the Democrats is taken for granted.

The New Hampshire election is the first of 14 state presidential primaries scheduled in March, April, May and June to elect state delegates to the national conventions in Philadelphia next summer.

Voters in the primaries get a chance to show their preference for a presidential candidate in two general ways. In some states they vote directly for a presidential candidate as well as for delegates to the national conventions.

In other states they vote for would-be delegates to the national convention who favor certain presidential candidates.

Most related between de NOT beld proposition pripagalog. Instance.

Most states, however, do NOT hold presidential primaries. Instead, the political parties hold state conventions at which delegates are elected to the national conventions.

There are live kinds of Presidential primaries. The various types and the states in which they are used are:

1. Presidential preference vote and direct election of delegates to a national convention who may be pledged to a certain presidential candidate, Ohio, Oregon, Wisconsin.

2. Presidential preference vote and direct election of delegates to national convention who are NOT pledged, Illinois (except delegates-at-large, elected in state convention), Nebraska, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

West Virginia.

3. Presidential preference vote but election of delegates to national convention by state convention, Maryland. (Delegates to Maryland state convention are pledged in accordance with the presidential preference vote in the various counties and the legislative districts of the West Virginia.

4. No presidential preference vote but direct election of delegates to national convention who may be pledged to a presidential candidate, California, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey and South

5. of votes. That's the system in Oregon and Ohlo.

In states where the voters do not directly vote for presidential nomination candidates, but delegaes may be pledged, it works this way: Individual candidates for delegates or a complete slate of delegate-candidates file with their nominating petitions the names of their favorite presidential candidate. The presidential candidate's name is then placed on the primary ballot beside the delegate's name.

A vote for the delegate in question indicates the voter's preference for the presidential candidate whom the delegate is supporting.

After the New Hampshire primary the next presidential primaries are scheduled to be held in New York and Wisconsin on April 6.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 21, 1948

SUPREME LEADER

Never has any American commanded throughout his life such widespread confidence as George Washington. Thomas Jefferson was ferociously assailed. Even Lincoln was bitterly attacked by many; it took his assassination to make Americans realize how much he meant to them.

Washington was a universally accepted leader always. Had he not favored the Revolution, it would have been a short-lived affair, easily put down. His endorsement brought many to the cause. His generalship, making much out of little, won the war through, and ranks Washington among the great military leaders of the world. As president of the Constitutional Convention and President of the United States, he united the country as no one else could have done or has done since. He pulled it together, moreover, out of a chaos of conflicting

All over the world the name of Washington has inspired lovers of freedom. And not them alone. The cold Duke of Wellington, victor over Napoleon, kept Washington's portrait in his living-room, where he could draw inspiration from it every day.

Washington was always a unifying force. His one great anxiety about his nation's future, as shown in his Farewell Address, was lest party strife, with its personal bitterness, retard or twist or otherwise injure the nation's progress along right roads.

Early risers in winter will live long because, not hurrying, they will be less likely to have accidents. So says the Greater New York Safety Council. Maybe, but who wants to avoid accidents at such a price?

NOMINATING A PRESIDENT

Many thoughtful persons long have sought a way to give the people more actual voice in the choice of the president. Under the present system the people only choose between the candidates of the major parties, and have no real and final voice in the selection of the candidates.

Under this system the people can help to name the candidates only if each individual ler's solution (arsenic), and some with tar ointment takes it upon himself to do so. The citizen and other cases whom he was unable to help but who wants to have his voice considered at | who were cured by the rays of the sun only to have the national convention of this party must take the initiative. He can do this with a letter, post card or telegram to the nearest party convention delegate, or to the chairman of his state's delegation, telling his choice for the nomination. The local or county party committee office can supply names and addresses of the delegates.

Let no person think that his opinion will not be heeded. The intention of every national convention is to nominate a candidate who can be elected. It stands to reason that the prospect favored by the most voters is the most likely to be elected, and if the convention delegates know with certainty who that prospect is they will surely nominate him. If individual voters will tell their delegates whom they favor for president, the delegates will be able to speak with authority on the floor of the convention.

The ideal tax bill, in the eyes of some congressmen, would be one that taxed others, but let their own constituents go scot free.

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Recent announcements of the dangers of heart disease, recognized as the number one killer of mankind, have given added impetus to the New York State Masons' drive to raise funds for medical research into the cause, cure and prevention of rheumatic

According to the medical board which will allocate funds for research, rheumatic fever is the "greatest single cause of heart disease in children." The board, headed by Dr. Currier McEwen, dean of New York University's College of Medicine, states we must provide more money for research into rheumatic fever which kills one out of every 10 children who contract it, and cripples

A BRONX CHEER

Ed Flynn, Democratic boss of the Bronx, should be the last man to complain that the Communists defeated him in an off-election for a member of Congress. The Communists won 2-1; but the interesting fact is that in one of the most disciplined Democratic districts, where Democrats came out to vote with religious zeal and always won, about 50,000 out of 96,000 stayed away from the polls.

The real candidate up there was not Leo Isacon, who ran for Congress, but Henry Wallace, who son, who ran for Congress, but Henry Wallace, who made this particular election a test of his following in New York State. The Communists concentrated on this district with the rigid disciplines of their party. Henry Wallace, Vito Marcantonio, Ferdinand C. Smith and all the galaxy that the Kremlin can muster spoke to the voters. The opposition brought up Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, which produced nothing.

Why did the 50,000 stay away from the polls? You may accept it as correct that they were Democrats, and had they voted, the Communists would have been defeated. The Communists built would have been defeated. The Communists built this campaign on three issues: 1. Our relations with Soviet Russia: 2. The Palestine question: 3. The Negro. The wildest emotions were stimulated over these questions, so that in a district of complex racial, and religious interest, voters had to be prowar with Soviet Russia, pro-Arab, and pro-White Supremacy to vote for Wallace's opponent. It was a neat trick and it worked. Ed Flynn and his machine were no match for it. The voters stayed

It is possible to exaggerate the importance of this election. The complexion of the district is unusual even in this cosmopolite city. When I lived there in my youth, it was made up largely of Irish Catholics, Germans and Jews. In recent years, it has become largely Jewish and Italian with a tremendous influx of Negroes from Harlem. Thus, the Palestine and Negro questions loomed larger than any other. The Democratic organization remains largely Irish and is out of touch with the new population.

Furthermore, Ed Flynn, as a Roosevelt supporter, helped to build the American Labor Party as part of the New Deal amalgam. It is interesting to note that the American Labor Party does not even appear in the index of his book, "You're the Boss," although it has become his main political problem. He does, however, refer to it in the text to explain that since Mr. Roosevelt's death, he has not accepted an endorsement from that party for It is possible to exaggerate the importance of to explain that since Mr. Roosevelt's death, he has not accepted an endorsement from that party for any of his candidates. That is also since he failed in his mission to Moscow to convince Stalin that Thomas Aquinus is a better guide than Karl, Marx. Stalin was apparently not impressed by Flynn. Two facts, however, do stand out as a result of this off-election:

Two facts, nowever, do stand out as a regular of this off-election:

1. The Palestine question will loom large in the 1948 Election in areas where there is a density of Jewish voters. This means that in states like New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and California, candidates for public office will debate the virtues of Jew and Arab, the wickedness of the British and the intractibility of the State Department. It will be used for all it is worth.

2. Were the election held now, Wallace would get between 800,000 and 1,000,000 votes in New York State. In 1944, Roosevelt carried New York State by 316,591. This majority included 496,405 American Labor Party which gave the state to Roosevelt and defeated Dewey. Granting what is not so, that Truman is as popular as Roosevelt was, it is obvious that Truman cannot carry New York State in 1948 under any circumstances, as long as Wallace is a candidate. Further, it is doubtful whether Truman can carry it even were Wallace not a candidate. On the other hand, Dewey defeated Mead for Governor by 687,151 votes. Mead having the American Labor Party endorsement nevertheless. In a word, in both 1944 and 1946, Dewey showed strength as a Republican while the Democrats had to have Communist assistance on both occasions. These figures illuminate all current calculations, for even were Wallace not a candidate, they are indicative of the trend in a state which has 47 electoral, votes.

One is free to express opinion;
the other is not. One the citizen buys; the other he gets free.

This article will endeavor to

This article will endeavor to emphasize why it is the newspaper almost always takes the brunt of criticism of the pressist is the one to get the smear, the lashing and the venom of unreasonable and sometimes vicious critics. Largely it is because newspapers have opinions and express them.

The fact that the people sustain newspapers with which they do not always agree, and in the form that high-brow critics perennially decry, should be answer enough to those who would express them.

The newspaper is only a part of the press. The last learned group to appraise mass communications included radio and movies as part of the press. The newspaper does not accept this inclusion. Only mediums which are free to speak are parts of the press in a free country. To most people the press means just the newspapers.

People who have no opinions or those who have them but do not or cannot express them seldom get much criticism. They arouse no ire because of what they say.

We can enjoy, even admire such a one, if he has other talents to offer, but when a time comes to make an important decision we rarely go to him. Instead we seek those who have ideas and opinions—and if we are wise we do not avoid those with whom we disagree:

""When the people want their newspapers changed the newspapers will be the first to know it and will be well on its way to meet the needs and desires of the people, long before theorists have discovered that the newspapers really are made by the people who read that the newspapers really are made by the people who read that the newspapers really are made by the people who read them.

The people create their own type of press by support of it. In process of elimination, they even have preserved papers with which they violently disagree, and thinking of the American people.

Apparently they like opinions with which to agree or with which to agree or with which to agree or with which to quarrel. Whatever their likes, a free press can only entire the intelligents in the intelligents in the newspapers was and will be well on its way to meet the needs and will be well on its way to meet the needs and will be well on its way to meet the needs and will be well on its and will be the first to know it and will be vell on its and will be vell on its and will be vell on its and will be the first to know it and will be vell on its and will be vell on its

The medium that reaches the masses is the newspaper. More than 50 million newspapers are bought every day in the United States. In the 1944 presidential election 48 million votes were cast. There are about 35 million families in the country. So the newspaper truly takes the printed word to all literate people and with it free expression of opinion.

The only other means of communication which do not use the printed word. Among all mediums, the newspaper is the only one—which is free to speak mediums, the newspaper is the only one—which is free to speak that reaches the masses.

Freedom to speak is bound to arouse disagreement. Likewise it is sure to arouse the wrath of those who would have everybody agree with them.

nowspaper's place in this picture is that it must be sustained by those who read it; can have no those who read it; can have no revenue without readers, cannot survive without them. South's four no trump bid was Blackwood, and North with two aces correctly responded with five hearts, then six hearts, showing two kings. I do not know what East doubled on. His doubte could only locate any missing high cards for the opponents. West opened the seven of spades to indicate the top of nothing, but I would have preferred to open the four of clubs, fourth best of

Praises Heart Workers

New York, Feb. 21 (P)—Gov Thomas E. Dewey has commended the accomplishments of "free medicine" in the United States in compatting the problem of heart disease. Addressing a dinner last night sponsored by the New York Heart Association, Dewey said the group's campaign to raise funds to fight heart disease is a "challenge to those who know it's going to be done better by a free people than if it were done by government."
"Those who would like to reduce medicine to the dead level of government-owned mediocrity will be disappointed because the people are going to take hold of this thing," he said.

In The Pocket

While Ad Jones appears to be fighting a losing battle in his efforts to retain organized baseball for the City of Kingston, he must be commended for his sincerity, his willingness to go all out for something he believes in and his ceaseless campaign to line up supporters for his cause. In the final analysis it was the time element that licked him. . . . His general approach is refreshing in the light of the jaded, artificial position held by some of his contemporaries. . . . We firmly believe that in the absence of a working agreement with a major league club, it is best to forget the propo-ition for a year and start planning this summer for 1949.

Bill Lohrman told us he was frankly dubious about the club's chances without a major league tieup. . . . He pointed out that if Kingston didn't support a pennant winner last year it would be inviting a repetition of the 1947 rhubarb if the Class B club floundered in the second division.

Even the Giants Knew About It:

Despite his long ties with the Giants as a pitcher, Lohrman got nowhere fast in his negotiations with the Giants. They told the transplanted New Paltz citizen the Giant farm system already includes three Class B clubs. . . The part that hurt was Jack Schwartz's reminder to Bill of the Dodger debacle of last year. . . . Apparently the news got around. . . . The only alternative would appear to be a strong semi-pro club to restore confidence that was lost last year and a general buildup toward organized baseball plans for 1949. . . . We're for any type of baseball that will bring recreation to the city's fans but from here it looks like OB is out for 1948.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Is it true that Warren Smith will have opposition in his bid for re-election as president of the City Baseball League? . . The grapevine says some of the managers are clamoring for a change and it's a poorly guarded secret that a prominent local baseball figure is being championed by a couple of managers. . . This Audrey Erickson gal of the New York Cover Girls basketball squad must be a stunner. Highland American Legion club in Highland tonight at Highland High School gym at 8 p. m. . . A beautiful 19-year-old blonde, she has been publicized on three continents as the All-America Girl. The Associated Press recently gave her a huge coast-to-coast send-off. . . In addition to being the prettiest athlete in America, Audrey excels in virtually every sport. . . Basketball which she only took up two years ago is her newest field. . . She is outstanding in swimming, bowling, hockey, ping pong, horseshoe pitching and football, year of the pretty of the football. . . She can kick a football 40 yards and a wolf at least yards. . . We have no accurate line on her aptitude for "post office."

Off Men and Mice

Of Men and Mice:

The R.P.I. lacrosse team will make a tour of England this summer and appear in Olympic exhibitions at Wembly Stadium, London. . . . Oxford, Cambridge and English Lacrosse Union club teams will be played on the English tour. . . The only community with two Grand Circuit tracks (for trotters) in the United States is the little hamlet of Goshen (pop. 3073). . . . Lou Schafer, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. attended the New York State Camp Directors' Conference in Utica this week. . . . Lou is in charge of the Pine Knoll Day Camp at DeWitt Lake. . . . The Tillson courier says Tom Corrigan has severed relations with the Brooklyn Dodger organization and is casting about for new connections. . . . He will be available for semi-pro ball, if he falls to make an OB contract. . . . The Rosendale Valley Inn basketball club has switched home games from Firemen's Hall to the High Falls firehouse gym because the heating system in Rosendale just died. . . .

The Duchess Says:

"The male bowlers say the women gossip and discuss everything from the babies formula, the recent operation, petticoat, dresses and what have you when doing their stuff on the lanes, but why in the name of good bowling is the stronger sex so interested in Dreft and Crisco? . . What's cooking? . . Bill Mohr's body may be down in Port Ewen every Thursday but his heart will be at the Central Recs. . . What's happened to Betty Boyce's ball? . . . The poor girl is thrown off balance by the heavy weighted, flashing jewelry on her left hand. . . Congratulations, Betty, Hank probably knows by now that you're small but mighty. . . Hilda Matheus, the quiet ex-WAC, also is wearing one. . . Gil Sampson hasn't forgotten the many duties of a city secretary at tournament time. . Ray Cord no doubt appreciated his able assistance. . . If whoever is talking Rose Schatzel into changing her ball, would kindly lay off, Rose would be hitting her 600 series again. . . (She did) . . . Marge Jansen and Dot Rawding are running neck and neck in the Emerick's Ladies' League, but railbirds predict Bea Barley will finish in the No. 1 slot in individual averages. . . Social note: Bowlers and onlookers should have the courtesy to stay away from the alley approaches with wet foot attire while others are bowling. . . Wet bowling shoes could mean bad bruises, to say nothing for the passe nylons.

11! Weaver and Lowe Lead Scoring in Dull Contest

Kingston High school owned its 31st consecutive basketball victory today, following a 69-35 drubbing of a sadly outclassed Middletown High quintet last night on the municipal auditorium boards.

While a less than SRO-crowd looked on and yawned politely, the Kiasmen jumped off to a 20-7. lead in the first period and then won as they pleased.

The Kiasmen held quarter leads of 20-7, 38-18, 51-21 and unleashed their steadiest flow of power throughout the season as Coach Kias cleared the bench.

Weaver Suffers Fall

he unleashed two desperation heaves from mid court but missed both times, although he hit the rim on both occasions and the crowd groaned.

Ronnie Scheffel scored 7 points in a brief splurge and acquitted himself nobly as a delegation of rooters near the cheering section cheered his every move.

Weaver Sinks 18

Weaver Sinks 15 Weaver's 15 points topped Ken Lowe by a single point. Mike Rienzo accounted for five baskets and several times passed back to a teammate when he had wide open shots under teammate when he had wide open shots under.

Aside from a young man called Decker, 13 points, the Middies were a confused crowd indeed. Like so many before him Coach Mac Wagner, who recalled more fruitful Kingston-Middie clashes of yesteryear, sat on the bench of doomed coaches and took the licking in stride. He showed his greatest emotion only when Referees Buck Gros and Johnny erees Buck Gros and Johnny Babiarz obviously were off on their timing on a 3-second pivot
